

Graphene based nanoelectronic devices

Dr. Osama M. Nayfeh,
University of Illinois

Abstract

Graphene, a two-dimensional monolayer of tightly packed carbon atoms could enable new advanced electronic devices. The use of graphene's properties including its unique band-structure in novel circuitry and efficient photo-voltaics will be discussed.